

English Long Term Plan –Reading 2024 - 25

Archbishop Runcie CE First School

Our original Mission

“A school for the education of children only of the labouring mining and manufacturing and other poorer classes in the Parish of Gosforth and for no other purpose.”

The school first existed as a force for social change and we remember this within our historic original mission as we continue to inspire and transform the minds and hearts of everyone we serve today and, thus, the wider world.

In light of our ever changing community, we seek to develop love and determination and, in doing so, enable everyone associated with our school to experience life in all its fullness, as promised by Jesus.

Current Mission

Inspired by the parable of the lost sheep, our mission is to enable everyone within our school community to flourish through our unconditional love and determination, as demonstrated by the good shepherd. We are reminded that every single member of our school community is equally valued and loved in the image of God.

Vision

In 1 Corinthians 16:13-14, Paul urged the church in Corinth to:

Be courageous; be strong.
Do everything in love.

This epistle helps us understand;

- that God's love sets self aside, over and over, endlessly, for the good of others.
- that our thoughts and deeds should spring from, and be done, in love and with strength and courage – referred to as determination.

Values

Rooted in the epistle above, the Christian values of love and determination are at the core of teaching and culture within the school.

Rationale from English Policy:

Good literacy skills—the ability to read, write, and communicate confidently—are foundational to learning. They unlock access to all areas of the curriculum, enabling students to discover and pursue their individual talents and interests.

Professor Becky Francis, Improving Literacy in Key Stage 1 Guidance Report, EEF

In the schools visited, teaching children to be literate was the cornerstone of an effective curriculum.

Bold Beginnings, Ofsted

English has a pre-eminent place in education and in society. A high-quality education in English will teach pupils to speak and write fluently so that they can communicate their ideas and emotions to others and through their reading and listening, others can communicate with them.

Primary National Curriculum, Department for Education

A high-quality education in English is essential, not just for educational success but for access to wider society and for the sheer pleasure of reading and writing both as a child and as an adult. Ensuring children leave school prepared for wider life, exposed to a wide range of texts to give a bedrock of cultural capital, able to communicate well both written and orally, and with a love of English itself, all form part of the civic duty of all educators. It is a responsibility that we, as a school, take very seriously.

English education is not simply limited to a daily lesson per day but is part of everything we do in school. From high quality modelled language by staff, to texts read during snack time, to skills taught in every single subject, English is embedded throughout school life.

It is difficult to overstate its importance: a broad and balanced curriculum is increasingly difficult to access without a core foundation of strong literacy skills. Similarly, the school recognises its role in giving children a good literacy education as part of its religious duty: children can better experience the richness and diversity of God's creation through strong English skills.

For ever since the world was created, people have seen the earth and sky. Through everything God made, they can clearly see his invisible qualities—his eternal power and divine nature. So they have no excuse for not knowing God.

Romans 1:20

At Archbishop Runcie CE First School, we aim for children, through an excellent English education, to be able to:

- read easily, fluently and with good understanding
- develop the habit of reading widely and often for both pleasure and information
- acquire a wide vocabulary and an explicit understanding of grammar and knowledge of conventions for reading, writing and spoken language
- appreciate our rich and varied literary heritage
- write clearly, accurately and coherently, adapting their language and style in and for a range of contexts, purposes and audiences
- use discussion in order to learn, elaborating and explaining their ideas
